You can test a ground rod using either a clamp-on ground meter or an earth electrode tester. To set up a clamp-on ground meter, all you need to do is clamp the meter onto the ground rod or grounding electrode conductor, turn it on, and take the reading. To use an electrode tester, you'll need to place 2 probes into the ground at specific points.

If you want to apply ellipsis (...) to a single line of text, CSS makes that somewhat easy with the text-overflow property. It's still a bit tricky (due to all the requirements - see below), but text-overflow makes it possible and reliable.. If, however, you want to use ellipsis on multiline text - as would be the case here - then don't expect to have any fun.
